2024 Media Planning Guide

About Choice

Since 1965, Choice has provided academic librarians with the up-to-date information they need to best serve their community. As a publishing unit of the Association of College and Research Libraries, a division of the American Library Association, Choice has unparalleled access to the academic library market. Our brands include Choice Reviews, Toward Inclusive Excellence, and LibTech Insights. Our audience relies on us to provide them with timely and actionable advice on what to collect, what to recommend, how to serve their increasingly diverse communities, and how to navigate the latest technology trends.

Essential resources for Academic Libraries

Choice's authority comes not only from our quality content, but by building trust through our parent organizations: the Association of College and Research Libraries (ACRL) and the American Library Association.

Choice's editorial direction is steered by ACRL and ALA membership via the Choice editorial board and under the auspices of the ACRL executive board.

Our reviews and bibliographical essays are done by academic librarians and teaching faculty, which means we are constantly building trust through our editorial process.

Webinars

Our webinar program offers sponsors an exciting opportunity to present a professional-development program to the academic library community. These popular web presentations support and enhance the role of today's academic librarian while allowing sponsors to strengthen their brand awareness within the community. Each program is a live, interactive, 60-minute presentation offering relevant and useful information that benefits and enriches today's academic library community.

"Choice-ACRL webinars are always excellently conducted. Whenever the topic is of interest, I attend."

"These webinars touch themes and conversations that connect me to larger librarianship. The webinars are motivating and also provide ideas or actions that can be enacted on a smaller scale at my library."
